

George Saville Carey, "The Negro's Soliloquy"

Description

GEORGE SAVILLE CAREY

"The Negro's Soliloquy"

By yon bright streamers in the sky,
Which glimmer on the sea;
The chearing sun approaches nigh,
Yet brings no hope to me,
The peaceful night yields me no rest, 5
Which gives to others sleep,
My heart it bleeds within my breast,
My eyes do nought but weep.

The toils, I could endure of day,
Or spurn the tyrant's chain, 10
But Norah's driven far away,
Which racks my tortured brain;
My wife is she, ah cruel heart,
That could her heart oppress,
But 'tis alone the tyrant's part, 15
To triumph o'er distress.

Haste, blessed tidings! haste along,
From fair Britannia's isle,
Ah, come and ease the anxious throng,
And make the slave to smile; 20
If then good hap, my Norah lives,
These limbs shall never have rest,
Until we meet, oh, then I'll cleave,
Forever to her breast.
